

Energy Performance Certificates (EPCs)

An EPC tells you how efficient your home is and gives it a rating from A (very efficient) to G (inefficient). Information about how your home is built and how it is heated is used to generate an EPC. It gives you a personalised list of home improvements that can increase your home's EPC rating.

It also estimates how much energy your household currently uses.

It then shows you how much energy you can save by making the suggested home improvements. EPC ratings give you a standardised way to compare your home with others. EPCs can only be generated by a qualified assessor - Micron is a government approved, qualified assessor.

Declaration

I understand the details that I have provided on this application form will be held on a database by the Government of Jersey for the purposes of administering and monitoring the Home Energy Audit subsidy. I have read and agree to abide by the terms and conditions of this subsidy programme detailed on gov.je/energyaudit.

I understand that if my application is approved; the subsidy will be paid directly to the accredited energy assessor that I have appointed once the Government of Jersey has received the completed Energy Performance Certificate (the output generated from the energy audit).

I understand the Government of Jersey will hold a copy of the Energy Performance Certificate for my property on their database for the purposes of energy efficiency statistics and policy development and a copy will be made available to any future owner of the property on request.

I agree to the above declaration

I am happy for Micron to contact me with any offers
